

Here is the link to my web site, where you can see 60 pictures from yesterday. If you download, or upload, pictures from that site, they're not quite at full resolution. I'll send you the two you requested by email, at full resolution, then you can let me know if you need anything else. I took a picture of the four women on the steps of Town Hall. That's the picture I'm sending you. But there are also several shots of them at the Groundbreaking itself; if you prefer one of those you can either download it, or let me know and I'll email it. These are fairly large files, you may not WANT them at full resolution!
